Plaintiff notified defendant not to sell her husband any more ligner but not her husband any more liquor, but not-withstanding this notice, defendant, on the 25th of April, 1874, sold liquor to her husband, who got drunk and went home and abused her, dislocating her shoulder and inflicting other injuries.

The tow boat, "My Choice," landed at our city last night and was immediately boarded by the friends of the four young men who were run down by this same steamer near Huntington about two weeks ago. In conversation with the captain and officers nothing new was elicited concerning the event, excepting the story of the mate, that as soon as the boat struck the unfortunate men he ran along the barges to the head of the tow, where he discovered one of the party some twenty feet in advance of the Loat struggling in the water. He says he threw a rope to the man, whoever he was, which struck about his neck, calling to him to catch hold and he would draw him on board. The only reply was, "for God's sake don't kill me," and he then disappeared beneath the water. FATAL COAL OIL.

A Weman Burned and Dying from

Coal-Oil Explosion. Another victim has this morning been added to the list of coal-oil horrors in this city. Mrs. Annie Summer, residing at No. 41 Budd street, at ten o'clock to-day attempted to light a fire with coal oil, when the can exploded, setting fire to her clothing, and burning her so badly that her death must ensue within a short time.

The circumstances, as gathered by a STAR reporter from the excited erowd at the house a few minutes after the occurrence, were somewhat as follows:

About ten o'clock the neighbors living in the vicinity of No. 41 Budd street heard a loud report in Mrs. Summer's kitchen, followed by screams, and, sushing in, found her clothing and the whole room on fire, and Mrs. Summer running frantically through the halls, making endeavors to extinguish the fire in her clothing.

The burning clothing and the oil drop-The burning clothing and the oil dropping from her clothes communicated the flames to the furniture and combustible material of the house, and the whole building seemed likely to take fire.

The first efforts of the neighbors were for the rescue of Mrs. Summer, but in the excitement considerable time elapsed before any material aid was given her, and in fact not until her clothing had

The unfortunate woman was carried The unfortunate woman was carried screaming to a bed, and a physician hastily summoned. Meantine an alarm had been turned in, but a part of the crowd had turned their attention to the fire, and the flames were extinguished before the engines arrived.

The physician, Dr. Cleveland, on his arrival pronounced her case entirely hopeless. The flesh was in places literally cooked and in others was burned to a crisp.

Her hair was partially burned from her head, and her face, arms and shoulders presented a horrifying appearance. The physician immediately did all in his power to relieve her, but said she could not live more than an hour at further. not live more than an hour at furthest.

BASE-BALL.

-The New Cincinnati Nine Fictorious

The most interesting and exciting rame of base-ball was played yesterday that has been played in this city since September, 1870. Five years ago Cincinnati boasted the most famous ball clinati bonsted the most famous ball club that had ever been organized, and not without reason. Since that the "Old Reds" had never been even approached, not to say excelled. On the 7th of September, 1870, Chicago sent to our city her favorite ball club, the White Stockings, who, contrary to all expectation, completely annihilated our pets. Then there was "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth," for the glory of the "Reds" had departed. Chicago had accomplished her purpose and she was happy. All during these five long, tedicus years this defeat has broken the rest of every citizen of "Porkopolis," and the wish of every one has been the defeat of the "White Socks."

We have been avenged, the new Reds have wiped out the shame of the "old," and covered themselves with glory. That "damned spot" is out at last.

The impression that our new nine was not of the first water has also been proved a fallacy. Yesterday they stepped to the bat with a determination to win and they did win, and not by a quibble, "and if such a one had not muffed such another one's ball they would not have scored a single run," or that other whine of the disappointed, "If the game had'nt been sold, &c." But the victory was so decisive that it leit no room for doubt.

Fully 3,000 people were on the grounds, club that had ever been organized, and

Fully 3,000 people were on the grounds, and during the first half of the game and especially during the fourth inning, the wildest excitement prevailed, but it soon became evident that the Chicagos were over matched. The heavy batting, good fielding and deliberate coolness of the Reds was too much for them. Up to this time the White Socks were ahead. In Fully 3,000 people were on the grounds, the fourth inning, however, Gould went out at first by an easy ball to Golden, Snyder got to first on a muff by Warren; Radcliffe struck a liner between first and den.

The Whites at the bat, Radeliffe dropped a hot liner from Peters into Charlie Gould's bushel basket, where it ledged safely, putting Peters out. Hastings gave Fisher an easy fly and then retired. Three called balls gave Golden his first. Warren knocked a magnificent liner to the right field, which raised his hopes to such an extent that he became ambitious, and in attempting to take hopes to such an extent that he became ambitious, and in attempting to take second took a back seat. Just then Golden planted his heel upon home plate, and was given one taily by Umpire Jones. Score 3 to 3. And "chaos came again."

The Chicagos from this point became demoralized, and Chicago stock went down, while Cincinnati went up in an inverse ratio, and when at the end of the ninth inning the score stood: Cir-cinnati 13, Chicago 5, the scene was without a parallel. We append the

ED. STAR: It is said that our city has now no ball players, which we wish to contradict. There are now in the city contradict. There are now in the city the following players, equal to, if not superior, to any of the paid ball players in this vicinity. Jefferson is a slow pitcher, but is very deceiving, in fact, every ball player at the creek says that he is the hardest to hit they ever saw. The fielding of the other players would be fine, as they are all well-known, first-class players in their position. This is the nine to play the Blues, Stars or Ludlows.

The first of a series of games between the Athlete and Opera B. B. Clubs, of this city, was played on the 8th, at Cove-dale. The result was a score of 21 to 11 in favor of the Athletes.

The London gossips are telling this story, apropos of Queen Victoria's continued seclusion: At the Princess of tinued seclusion: At the Princess of Wales' garden party, the other day, the Queen accosted a distinguished officer and conversed affably with him for some minutes. At last the gallant general remarked: "I am really very sorry, madam, for being so stupid, I am sure I have seen your face and remember it perfectly well, but I can not remember your name."

The Grand Opera-house was crowded to its utmost last night, camp-stools being in requisition along the isles. recorded at the Grand Opera-house.

It would be useless to individualize. Everything was a success. Whether Emerson, Arlington or Rice was upon the stage, the audience was pleased, and showed their pleasure by round after round of appliance. The singing, for which this troupe is celebrated, was one of the most pleasing teatures of the programme.

The above cut represents the Hon. Daniel & Dickinson, former Attorney General of the United States, as seen when attacked with STRANGULATED RUPTURE.

Mr. Dickinson suffered intensely, notwithstanding he had the best surgical aid. Everything was done that science could suggest, and as the last remedy the knife used, and yet he died in great anguish on the third day. This is a fearful warning to those who are ruptured.

RUPTURE---HOW CURED. Mr. George E. Eakings, of Philadelphia, writes the following interesting Par-ticulars:

wattes the following interesting Particulars:

To the Editor of the New York Sun:
Sign-For several years I was afflicted with rupture and suffered from the use of trusses. Casually noticing in your paper a recommendation of Dr. Sherman of your city, and about the same time meeting Mr. J. W. Ayres, of Camden, N. J., who informed that he had been a victfin to rupture and was cured by Dr. Sherman's treatment, I felt animated and wendered that the second of the straightway to New York, consuited Dr. Sherman, and had him adapt his remedies to my case. It was to me a happy occurrence, and I shall ever feel grateful to you and Mr. Ayres for having directed my attention to Dr. Sherman, as well as to mim for the safe and comportable manner in which he treated my case. My mind was greatly oppressed, and my future was shadowed, as I was trying various trusses for help with no other result than vexation and injury. But now being sound again, and realizing its felicity, I feel it my imperative duty to add my testimony in favor of Dr. Sherman's tremedies, and to recommond the ruptured to go to him with the fullest confidence of being benefited.
